JAQUES-

Four James brothers in the Advance Guard of the Welsh Army met and halted the enemy at a certain pass as Wales was about to be invaded. For this service each of the brothers was made a baronet for life.

Three sons ( John, Richard and Oliver) of one of the brothers came to America. John soon died, one settled in New York and the other in New Jersey. From these two descend the Jaques .

*****

Jonathan Jaques, Sr., a seafaring man, died before the American Revolution. He had brothers, John, Henry and Stephen; two of the three served under Gen. Wolfe at Quebec in 1759. Jonathan Jaques, Sr., had four sons; Jonathan, Isaac, William ( died young) and John; his daughters were named Polly, Ruth, Susan, Messey, Letty ( rest of the names not known). Isaac, son of Jonathan Jaques, Sr., was a seaman drowned at Sandy Hook when a brig was over-turned by a whirlwind. John Jaques . moved from New Jersey to Pittsburgh, Pa. and from there to Madison, Indiana, afterwards settled in Cincinnati, Ohio. Jonathan Jaques born 3-28-1753 went to sea at intervals from the age of 13 years to the age of 27. During the Rev. war served on both land and sea. He was on Long Island at the time of Gen. Sullivan's defeat, and with a remnant of the army retreated to New Jersey. He fought in the battle at White Plains and helped sink two ships in North River, opposite Fort Washington, to keep them out of enemy hands. Set sail from Philadelphia in a brig called "Baltimore" mounted with 14 twelve-pounders; was attacked by the British but out-sailed them. Because of an embargo on shipping, returned to New York and joined a company of light dragoons under Col. Sheldon. Served part time as a recruiting officer. After the war's close returned to his home and married Sally Jaques ( a third cousin), daughter of Samuel and Abigail Jaques. Settled on his farm in Middlesex County, New Jersey where after 13 months and 6 days, Sally died. His second wife, Esther E. Roy was a cousin of Sally Jaques. He bought a third -interest in a sloop and traded along the coast for several years. In 1789 moved to Kentucky where after two years residence Esther Jaques died leaving four children, two boys and two girls (Isaac, Sally, Christianna and John ). Mrs. Rebecca Rankin, widow of John Rankin and daughter of George and Mary Frazer, became his third wife on 11-10-1791. She was a descendant of Hugh, son of a widow living in Paisley, Scotland. Sent to school at the age of seven years and having been punished by the master, went home only to be sent back to school by his mother. On the return was taken by two men and placed on a vessel bound for America. On arrival was sold as a servant but found himself among good people. After receiving his freedom married Miss Peggy Cummings whose parents were Quakers, originally from Woodbridge, N.J. Made his home on the Western Shore of Maryland, Kent Co. and had a family of five children: Hugh, John, George, Mary and Peggy.
